Environmental Education Update – Landscape Conservation Cooperatives (LCC) August 26, 2015 at 2 PM EST

Description

This distance learning series, presented quarterly by NCTC's Division of Education and Outreach staff, features current environmental education topics and highlights upcoming environmental education courses offered by NCTC and our partners. This series is also an opportunity to share the various environmental education resources and training opportunities that are available to FWS employees and to network with colleagues and partners.

The August 26th session will feature Elsa Haubold, National LCC Coordinator, Jean Brennan, Appalachian LCC Coordinator and Laura MacClean, Science Applications Communications Manager presenting an update on the Cooperatives and sharing information about environmental educational resources available for use by educators. The broadcast also includes time for live interaction and Q&A with the presenters.

Objectives

Upon completion of this webinar series, participants will be able to:

- List three current and relevant environmental education topics that can be addressed at their FWS site.
- Identify at least two environmental education resources/lesson plans that can be used at their FWS site.
- Identify at least two environmental education training opportunities available for FWS employees and other conservation professionals.
